Re: NCAI 70th Annual Convention: Marketplace
Tulsa, Oklahoma

I would like to thank the community for allowing me to attend the 70th Annual National Congress of American Indians Convention in Tulsa, Ok, last week. I learned a lot from the breakout sessions that I attended and received a lot of information on the latest events happening nation-wide. As always, NCAI continues to advocate on the behalf of all tribes in the areas of legislation, policy, health, education, natural resources, veteran's affairs and for the continued growth of our tribal economies.

One resource that I was able to bring back was a flash drive that contains copies of many, many items of discussion from the week's events. I also have notes from the afternoon sessions that I attended. In addition to these two items, I also met a few new contacts from other tribes that may be excellent partners on projects in the future. I will be asking to post a more detailed narrative to the tribal council website once all of my resources are organized.

Again, I thank the community for the generous opportunity to network, learn, and gather resources on their behalf at such an important event.

Miigwech miinwa,

Winnay Wemigwase
